DX NEWS

KH1/KH7Z, Baker Island –update

Following a successful Visalia DX Convention, the KH1/KH7Z team met in Cupertino this week to assemble the stations and network in preparation of landing on Baker in 2 months. The DXpedition is now in the final planning stages and this step was the last before packing and shipping our gear to Fiji. <https://dx-world.net/kh1-kh7z-baker-island-dxpedition/>

3Y0I, Bouvet –update

After receiving absolutely no single word of reply to our invitation from the 3Y0Z organizers (we leave that for your own judgement), an important decision has been taken by our team. WE'RE NOW OPEN FOR APPLICATIONS TO JOIN THE 3Y0I BOUVET ISLAND EXPEDITION.
<https://dx-world.net/3y0i-bouvet-island/>

3Y0Z, Bouvet 2018 –update

There have been several important milestones reached and decisions made in the last few weeks.

We have received a partial reimbursement on our payments made to DAP, our transportation contractor. In our view, this is a fair settlement with them.

Our vessel, Betanzos is now back in Punta Arenas and we believe the container with our personal gear and equipment are intact. We will be arranging to transport the container back to the US, arriving in a few months.

It has become apparent that the chance of finding a suitable and affordable vessel for the 2018-19 Austral season is becoming less and less likely. It appears that the very earliest that we could mount a second attempt to activate Bouvet would be the 2019-20 season or possibly beyond. <https://dx-world.net/3y0z-bouvet-2018/>
